| Digital Resilience – Keeping Children and Young People Safer Online  | Thursday21 November 202413:00 – 15:00  | Virtual Event  | Book via Learning Zone: Brighton &amp; Hove Learning Zone | Digital resilience grows through engaging with appropriate opportunities and challenges online, rather than through avoidance and safety behaviours. When children and young people understand the risks online, they can make informed choices about the digital space they are in, they can seek help when needed and can learn from their experiences, and they can recover when things don't go quite to plan. Digital resilience can provide children and young people with the self-confidence in being able to deal with challenges online successfully. This workshop is being delivered by Impact Initiatives and links closely to our Safeguarding in a Digital Age course.  |

| Impact of Parental Substance Misuse                             | Thursday28 November 202413:30 – 15:30 | Virtual Event | Book via Learning Zone: Brighton &amp; Hove Learning Zone  | There is evidence of parental substance misuse in 57% of serious case reviews (of serious or fatal child abuse). Serious Case Reviews highlight that professionals often focus on the issues faced by parents who misuse substances without considering the impact on their children. Not all parents who misuse substances (drugs and alcohol) are likely to cause harm to their children, but it can reduce their ability to provide practical and emotional care. Some of the serious effects of parental substance misuse for children include abuse, neglect, emotional problems, educational difficulties, being young carers of parents or siblings, and a potential to later use drugs or alcohol themselves. This course is included within the training programme as it clearly highlights these issues facing children and young people who live within the households where substance misuse is an issue. You will learn about what agency services are available to support the whole family, thus reducing or removing the potential risk/s of abuse. |
